

loyola hacks entrepreneurship

when? April 23rd, 2016 | 10am-7pm | Cuneo 311 (LSC)

what? A competition of technology startup ideas, judged by experienced faculty judges. This event is for anyone with a tech-minded business idea, anyone with software development skills who wants to develop apps, or anyone curious about what it takes to work on a startup idea - to rapidly develop and pitch an idea, and show off a prototype of a tech product in a fast and competitive setting.

who? Everyone. Undergraduate and Graduate students of any department with an interest in startup creation. No computer programming experience is necessary, though it would not hurt.

Let us know you are coming at: loyolahacks.com

Prizes will be awarded && food will be provided.

tw: @loyolalutech
sl: lutech.slack.com

lutech 